

MORE BRITISH WARSHIPS ARRIVE IN IRISH WATERS FOR EMERGENCY

WAR SUPPLIES UNLOADED FROM ENGLISH BOATS

Firing continues in streets of Belfast—Police shoot into mob.

COLLINS NOT WORRIED

Detailed plans for occupation of Ireland made by Great Britain.

Belfast, June 3.—Two additional British warships arrived here today to reinforce the war craft already in Ulster waters. They were the cruiser Wallace and a destroyer.

Firing has been in progress in the streets intermittently since Friday sundown. One man was killed when the police fired upon a mob which was trying to rescue a man who had been arrested for looting. Two others were wounded.

Heavy firing was reported from the region of Starbane and from the Lough-Armagh border.

British troops are reported on patrol duty on the northern boundary of Lough County.

More artillery has arrived here, being unloaded from warships. It includes heavy siege guns with ammunition. There are a number of British aviators here, but their airplanes have not arrived yet.

Dublin, June 3.—Following a meeting of the cabinet of the Irish provisional government, it was learned today that the Irish leaders have not yet come to an agreement over revision of the proposed constitution to meet the demands of the British government.

Arthur Griffith, president of Dail Eireann, presided at the meeting. The British objections to the constitution were discussed in detail.

Michael Collins, minister of finance, in the Dublin government, did not appear to be worried over the threat of war and reoccupation of Ireland by the British.

"Things are not so bad as they may seem on the surface," said Collins in a statement.

London, June 3.—Detailed plans have been prepared for the reoccupation of Ireland by the British in the event the Anglo-Irish negotiations collapse, it was learned today. Additional troops, supported by the heavy artillery, machine guns, armored cars, tanks and airplanes are being rushed to Belfast.

Military experts, including Lord Cavan, chief of the imperial general staff have advised the cabinet that, if the Irish free state is to be occupied it would be better for the British to concentrate their forces in Ulster and then work southward from the Ulster frontier. Heretofore the English campaigns have been started in the south.

TROUBLE IN TEXAS NEARLY SETTLED

Fort Worth, Texas, June 3.—Reports reaching here today said danger of a threatened race war at Kirvin had been at least temporarily averted and that the entire county of Freestone again was quiet. Negroes, earlier reported to have been barricaded in a farm house, are reported to have dispersed. Armed men can still be seen at various points however, it is said.

Today's trouble is a direct result of the murder of Miss Angie Ausley, 17-year-old school girl on May 4. Deputy Sheriff John T. King and City Marshal Otis King, uncles of the Ausley girl, went to the home of Mose Gibson, grandfather of the two Gibson negroes late yesterday for the purpose of arresting Leroy Gibson for the murder of Miss Ausley.

Leroy Gibson was killed as he attempted to throw his arms about one of the officers. His brother Alvin also dropped to the ground dead as a result of the encounter.

White Plains, N. Y., June 3.—District Attorney Weeks was notified this afternoon by the Philadelphia police that a man named John Guido, with a bullet wound in his arm and carrying a Ward baking company pass in his pocket, was taken into custody there today. Believing that Guido may be the man who was wounded by Walter S. Ward, the young millionaire at the time he killed Clarence Peters, district attorney Weeks arranged to send a man to Philadelphia at once to question him.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3.—A man believed to be one of the companions of Clarence Peters, ex-marine, slain by Walter S. Ward, son of a wealthy New York baker, is in the Samaritan hospital here. He is recovering from two old bullet wounds in the chest and right arm. He gives his name as John Cienso, of New York. When located by the authorities he put up a fight, which necessitated the use of blackjacks to subdue him.

At the hospital three policemen are on guard at his bedside. So far the man has refused to answer questions. Finger prints and a photograph of the suspect are being rushed to New York to establish identification.

DAYTON PREPARES TO FIGHT RATES

Dayton, June 3.—City Manager Eichelberger Saturday was preparing to carry out the instructions issued to him by the city commission Friday afternoon in reference to fighting the proposed rate increases of the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

Inquiring on rates and other telephone matters were mailed to officials of about a dozen cities which approximate Dayton in population. The manager arranged a conference for 11 o'clock with former City Attorney W. S. McConaughy, who has had wide experience in presenting telephone cases to the state public utilities commission. He also planned to get in telephonic communication with members of the county commission and the Oakwood council to endeavor to induce them to lend financial assistance in the fight against the rate increase.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IS ENACTED IN MISSOURI

Kansas City, June 3.—Frank Anderson, assistant superintendent of the Jones company, one of Kansas City's largest department stores was found dead in his room in the Mid-west hotel here early today, a bullet through his brain.

Beside him lay the woman whose name appeared on the hotel register as his wife. Police say she is Marie L. Beal, a nurse from the Colony hospital, Springfield, Ill. She was suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound which pierced her right side. Her silken undergarment were as flame.

"Don't ask me why I did it," she is alleged to have said, "Ask him what he did."

Then she lapsed into unconsciousness. At general hospital where she was taken, hope was expressed for her recovery.

HARDING LIKELY TO VISIT ALASKA

Washington, June 3.—President Harding's long contemplated plan to visit Alaska late this summer was revived today as a distinct possibility due to a growing sentiment among leaders that the tariff bill will not be passed at the present session.

Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, an administration leader, on leaving the White House following a conference with the president, expressed the belief that congress would not enact the measure at this session.

The Alaskan tour would include a visit by the president to the Canadian ports of Victoria and Vancouver in the province of British Columbia. The trip also would be a semi-circle swing around the country with all of the larger coast cities listed on the itinerary.

Ohio's Bonded School Debt Increases 1.706 Per Cent

Additional Indebtedness Piled Up Since 1900—Only Three Counties Reduced Total Debt Last Year, Tracy Announces.

Columbus, June 3.—The bonded school debt of Ohio's 4,832 taxing districts has increased 1.706 per cent since 1900, State Auditor Tracy announced today. A large proportion of this indebtedness is represented by assets in the form of lands and buildings. Auditor Tracy stated that officials of 40 counties, apparently are endeavoring to reduce their total school debt. Aggregate school indebtedness for the state was $133,029,406, June 30, last, as compared with $7,387,984, in 1900, an increase of $125,641,422 in 21 years. Tracy said.

He said Ohio's 94 cities incurred nearly 75 per cent of the school debt. Of the total school debt, $98,867,047 is represented by city bond issues. The value of lands and buildings in the cities is placed at $91,077,050.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, last, new school debts, totalling $40,123,318 were created and old debts, aggregating $6,434,570, were paid off. The schools in the cities, it is stated, created new debts totalling $29,315,500 and paid off old debts aggregating $4,181,139.

Only three counties—Jackson, Perry and Vinton—reduced their total school debt last year and did not create new obligations. Jackson County reduction was $8,200; Perry $16,150; Vinton $1,700.

Seventeen counties created new debts, but paid off old obligations aggregating more than the new ones. These counties include: Athens, paid off $58,000; created, $22,460; Belmont, paid off $33,870; created, $11,002; Champaign, $48,932 and $48,766; Delaware, $59,541 and $31,600; Tuscarawas, $100,823 and $98,970.

Twenty counties paid off old debts but created new obligations amounting to more than the old issues cancelled. These counties include: Ashland, paid off $13,068; created $25,311; Butler paid off $34,635; created $107,000; Columbiana, $156,501 and $202,966; Coshocton, $37,570 and $50,258; Muskingum, $43,289 and $66,170; Washington, $20,567 and $27,433.

The remaining 48 counties created new debts considerably greater than the amounts paid out in cancellation of old obligations.

Important information, that will be used at the trial of Frank Richardson, colored, charged with the murder of his wife Dorothy, whose body was found in the hydraulic at Miamisburg with a bullet hole in the breast, has been unearthed by Sheriff Cusick of Montgomery County and his deputies in Yellow Springs and Springfield, it is said.

The Sheriff said information he and his deputies obtained in their investigation in this county, will have great bearing on the case. Richardson entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned on the charge and his trial has been set for June 12.

SPECTRE OF COMBINATION RAIL AND MINE STRIKE TAKES SHAPE

Possibilities of Situation Cause Administration Leaders
Distinct Uneasiness—September Believed Best
Time for Walkout.

Washington, June 3.—The spectre of a combination railroad and miners' strike, involving close to 5,000,000 men and constituting the greatest industrial tie up in the history of the country began to take form in Washington today. Even though not yet materialized, the possibilities of the situation are such as to cause administration leaders' distinct uneasiness.

Railroad leaders, in the capital agree that September would be the best time to stage the transportation tie-up if the men decide to strike according to a canvas of opinion made by the International News Service.

Daily reports from railroad centers throughout the country received at labor headquarters indicate the men are "straining at the leash" and that they intend to quit work as a protest against wage reductions even if recognized chiefs of their brotherhoods and unions do not think a strike should be called. The leaders, however, are fully aware of this situation and there is expected to be no delay in forming the men out after their wishes are made a matter of record through strike ballots.

The brotherhood of locomotive firemen at its last convention prepared strike ballots to be sent broadcast to members whenever a wage cut was ordered. This convention was overwhelmingly in favor of a strike on the wage cut issue and the attitude of the firemen is believed to be paralleled by that of other railroad workers.

September is being looked upon as the best month for the rail tie-up on the hypothesis that the strike of 500-

EXECUTIVES FEEL NO APPREHENSION

Chicago, June 3.—Strike clouds looming across the industrial horizon are not regarded with apprehension by the country's leading railroad executives, it was stated on high authority today.

"We do not take the present strike threats seriously," said the president of one of the big middlewestern railroad systems. "A strike now, or a month from now would be inopportune from the standpoint of the men and their leaders know it."

Two things are against the likelihood of a strike. First employment conditions; men are not scarce. Wages even with the new cut, the pay of railroad men will be higher than in other industries.

The railroad president, who asked that his name not be used, said the "council of war" called by the brotherhoods for next Tuesday in Cincinnati to take up the wage reductions ordered effective July 1, by the U. S. Railroad Labor Board, is in his opinion, "bluff—bluff, pure and simple."

000 bituminous coal miners will be over by that time. The railroad labor chiefs think the mine strike will wind up some time in August. Whenever the miners go back to work there will be a rush of coal shipments and if this rush comes in September the railroads will have to cope with it at a time when they also will be called upon to haul millions of bushels of grain to the markets. Because a national rail strike is highly expensive costing in the neighborhood of $25,000,000 a day, it will have to be of short duration.

If the mine's do not go back, however, the railroads are agreeable to a combination strike that would be just as effective.

In view of the excessive cost of a railroad strike it may not be possible for the railway workers to go out for more than a week. For this reason, labor chiefs here think that the strike to be most effective should be called simultaneously throughout the country.

Reductions in wages have not yet been ordered by the labor board for the big four brotherhoods, but the best information here is that the wages of the engineers, firemen, etc., will be slashed.

POETICAL WILL NOW ON RECORD

Newark, N. J., June 3.—The first poetical will on record was probated here disposing of the estate of the late F. E. Casto, an insurance broker. It follows: "All my earthly goods I have in store To my dear wife I leave forevermore I freely give; no limit do I fix This is my will; she the executrix."

SNIPING STILL HOLDS WHEELER HILL IN GRASP

Intermittent Warfare Over Beer and Light Wine Continues.

Washington, June 3.—"In the vicinity of Wheeler Hill there was some sniping but along the rest of the front there was quiet."

That might well be the official communiqué today describing the intermittent warfare between Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the anti saloon league and Rep. John P. Hill of Maryland, over the latter's bill to make 2.75 beer and wine legal and saleable. Statements have been fired by both sides in great numbers. Today Rep. Hill made public a ruling made by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes on May 3 in which Haynes said:

"As at present advised, this office is not disposed to take action against the manufacture for use in the home of the maker of cider or other fruit juice containing not more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol by volume."

To which Rep. Hill responded, "When Haynes said 'as at present advised,' I suppose he refers to advice of Wheeler."

"If 2.75 per cent beverages are not intoxicating in the home, they are equally non intoxicating out of the home."

"Wheeler is afraid of an expression of opinion by the American people on the prohibition question and for this reason, he backed by gasoline, coca cola and grape juice money is constantly lobbying to stifle legislation for the American people."

"Wheeler charges my bill is unconstitutional. This is the function of the supreme court of the United States and not of a paid lobbyist of the anti-saloon league."

BIG DOLLAR DAY WILL TAKE PLACE IN XENIA JUNE 8

Greene County is going to be aroused to the biggest Dollar Day ever held by Xenia Merchants, according to plans originated at the Chamber of Commerce and being carried into effect by the Dollar Day committee appointed by that organization.

The committee in meeting Thursday afternoon fixed June 8 as the day of the bargain sale which merchants connected with the movement say will eclipse every previous sale of the kind and will mark a revolution in bargain day merchandising.

Twenty-four Xenia merchants and firms have donated money to the cause of advertising the bargain day in every nook and corner of Greene and surrounding counties and practically every merchant in the city is preparing a list of bargains to tempt the eyes of shoppers.

Supplementing each firm's newspaper advertising, the committee, with the money collected, is having printed a number of bills and posters advertising Dollar Day in Xenia, which will be circulated in the city and surrounding towns, with the aid of a number of run-arounds next Monday. Merchants with automobiles and a crew of helpers will pass the bills on auto trips on that day.

Towns that will be taken in are Cedarville, Yellow Springs, Old Town, Goes Station, Spring Valley, Waynesville, Bellbrook, Jamestown, Bowersville, Port William, Bloomington, New Jasper, Pleasant View, New Burlington, Paintersville, Lumberton, Harveysburg, McKay's Station, Osborn, Fairfield, New Germany and Zimmermann. Merchants who will lead these crews are Karl Bloom, Jacob Corp, E. R. Richards, Lester Stiles, Harold M. Owens, Harry Sparks, and A. Moser and others will accompany the auto parties.

The twenty-four merchants who are backing the Dollar Day movement, with their financial support are C. S. Frazer, C. A. Weaver, The S. & S. Shoe Store, Jobe Bros Co., Xenia Candy Kitchen, Katz and Richards, L. S. Hyman, I. Friedman Fred F. Graham, W. C. Co., L. S. Barnes, Osterly Millinery, Xenia Auto Necessary Co. Workmen's Store, Moser's shoe store, Hutchison & Gibney, F. W. Woolworth Co., The Criterion, Babb Hardware Store, Adair Furniture Store, Finney Millinery, Galloway and Cherry, H. E. Schmidt, and the Aldine Publishing house.

HAGUE MEETING WILL RESULT IN SUCCESS, BELIEF

Conference On June 15 Will Be Under Favorable Circumstances.

RUSSIA STANDS PAT

Will Not Deviate From Concessions Made to Allies

Moscow, June 2.—via London, June 3.—Russia will not go beyond the concessions offered to the allied powers at Genoa, when the international conference convenes at The Hague on June 15, for detailed study of the Russian situation, it was announced at the foreign office today. "It appears that The Hague meeting will begin under more favorable circumstances, than the Genoa meeting and there are reasons to believe it will be successful," the statement said.

"But Russia will not make any concessions beyond those contained in the memorandum to the powers at Genoa on May 11, despite any objections from the United States. Whether Russia will grant commercial rights in exchange for an international loan depends upon the conditions and the position of the United States which is just now very ambiguous."

"Although there is great need for economic assistance from the outside she can get along without it if it is necessary."

"As it has become apparent that the future cannot bring about fulfillment of Japan's aims in Mongolia it is possible that another peace conference will be arranged."

"There is a feeling of surprise over the indifference of the United States to the Japanese policy in the far east, especially regarding Japanese encroachments in Siberia. This is leading to the belief that the United States has a secret agreement with Japan by which America guarantees Japan complete freedom of action in Siberia and China."

"Such a policy on the part of the United States would certainly injure American prestige in the east. The concessions offered by Moscow to Washington Vanderbilt is an example of the good relations which could be arranged between America and Russia."

The statement was issued by Dr. Karachan, who is acting as commissary for foreign affairs in the absence of George Tchitcherin.

MATHILDE'S MOTHER WILL NOT INTERFERE

Chicago, June 3.—Mathilde McCormick, 17 year old granddaughter of J. D. Rockefeller, will not have to fight in court for the privilege of marrying Max Oser, Swiss riding master, who is more than a quarter of a century her senior.

It was said instead of in the courts by Mrs. McCormick, it was made clear by her attorneys that she had decided to abandon legal procedure to prevent it. A hearing on Mrs. McCormick's petition was to have been held today.

ENGLISH HALF TIMBER DESIGN DESIGNED BY CHAS. S. SEDGWICK

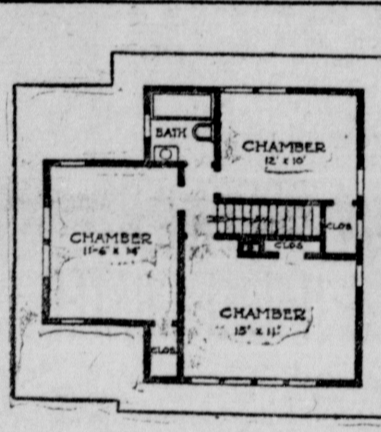

Constructed of "half timbers" and stucco and picturesquely gabled the house shown today is in many respects a striking design. Built on a suburban lot and surrounded by a velvet lawn and tall, stately trees this home is one that the most fastidious could justly be proud of. The plan is simple in arrangement and construction and is the last word in being economical. It is best suited for east frontage or south, and for west or north the plans should be reversed.

Through the glazed porch one enters the attractive living room which is well lighted with grouped windows in front; French windows opening onto the porch, add light and charm to this room. There is also a fireplace with one central chimney for both it and the heating plant. In the rear are the dining room, kitchen and screened porch on which there is space for the refrigerator.

Upstairs are three bed rooms and bath room. Each room has a nice sized closet and each is well lighted. The interior woodwork downstairs is of birch with floors of white maple. Upstairs the woodwork is enameled white with floors of birch.

The exterior is faced with dark pressed brick to first story window sill and stucco above while gables are shown with half timbers. All outside woodwork is stained dark brown, and the roof is moss green, thus combining a pretty color scheme.

The total size of this house is 28 feet by 27 feet and it is estimated that it would cost between $4,500 and $5,000 to build it, this estimate being exclusive of the plumbing and heating.

COAL PRICES WILL ADVANCE $2.00 IN XENIA ON MONDAY

Coal prices in Xenia will advance $2 a ton Monday, it was said by dealers here Saturday as the result of the approval by Secretary of Commerce Hoover of a maximum price of $3.50 a ton for spot coal at the West Virginia mines.

Prices at the mines in excess of the mine prices charged during the war when the rates were fixed by government control, will be in effect with the new order, it is said by local dealers. The new maximum rate will jump prices at the mines from slightly less than a dollar a ton to more than one dollar a ton, on different grades of coal.

Comparative prices show that West Virginia run of the mine that sold for $2.35 at the mines during the war time regulation will jump to $3.50 at the mines. Local dealers must figure in this freight rate of $2.45 a ton from West Virginia, plus a fair rate of margin to cover profit, lost and expense of $2.50 a ton, on which they generally allow a 25 cent discount for cash in ten days.

With run of the mine selling for $3.50 at the mines, with the freight rate added, coal stands local dealers at $5.95 in the yards, they say. A margin of $2.50 added to this amount brings the total cost to the consumers to $8.45 a ton less the 25 cent discount generally allowed for cash.

The coal business has undergone a peculiar change in the last few weeks say local dealers. Six weeks ago salesmen were pressing dealers to sell them coal at a much smaller figure. A short time later the steel industry opened up and went into the market for coal, taking a million and one half tons the first week. The second week the steel industry took three million tons and coal salesmen lost their insistence.

Prepared sides in Kentucky coal sold at the mines under the war time order of October 7, 1918 at $3.05 is $4 a ton now at the mines, according to Saturday's quotations. Slack and screenings leaped from a war time basis of $2.45 at the mines to $3.25 at the mines. To this must be added a freight rate of $2.33 a ton from Kentucky, plus the usual dealer's margin of $2.50 a ton.

Coal men here have been selling West Virginia good grade lump coal for $7.25 but with the $2 a ton jump in prices due to the new order will have to retail this coal at $9.25 or more starting Monday, they say. Dealers have no explanation to offer for the increase in price. They say that operators cut the wages of workmen in non-union fields and that these men are now being paid less than the regular miners' scale.

A few weeks ago when the union miners were working the same fields the operators were receiving less for their coal at the mines than they are now under the new order of Secretary Hoover.

The public is not buying coal now say the local dealers. Dealers admit that the consumers are "up in the air" and that they do not know whether to buy or wait. In the majority they are waiting and little coal is being retailed during this period.

BYRSON TO SEEK REPRESENTATIVE'S SEAT IS REPORT

W. B. Bryson, former Greene County Representative in the General Assembly, will throw his hat in the ring for the Republican nomination entering the lists against Rep. M. A. Broadstone, it is understood in political circles.

Although Mr. Bryson had not filed his declaration of candidacy with the Board of Elections up until two o'clock Saturday afternoon, it is understood that he will file the necessary paper in time to come before the August primary in an attempt to regain the seat he occupied for several terms.

The announcement that the former Representative will seek another term represents a reversal of his original plan, which was to run for State Senator in the event that the one-term rotation rule was to continue an effect which would fall to Greene County this time.

When Senator, G. G. O. Pence of Highland County signified his intention of running for a second term and three counties apparently stood back of him in an attempt to break the one-term rotation rule, Mr. Bryson decided not to become a candidate. It was rumored here as recently as this week, that he was to be the manager of the Charles Brand forces in this county, but his own campaign for office will forestall any such move as he will be occupied with his interests, if he chooses to run.

Mr. Bryson was first elected representative in 1914 and re-elected in 1916. He has served on the Xenia township Board of Education and is now on the Greene County Board of Education and is also president of the Greene County Farm Bureau. He is a prominent Xenia Township farmer, and will make a strong appeal to the rural vote for support. M. A. Broadstone, who is seeking re-election and whose candidacy if Mr. Bryson files, will furnish a race for the office, formerly served the district as State Senator for one term. When he was first elected to his present office he defeated S. H. Shawhan, prominent farmer and Grange member, in the primaries for the Republican nomination and if Mr. Bryson files he will find himself pitted against another rural candidate.

CHILD RETURNED TO HOME HERE

Little Hazel Porter, aged three, is now here with her mother, Mrs. Lillian Porter, colored, of Taylor street, after her brief sojourn in Columbus.

The child was returned Friday by her mother who went to Columbus and found the little girl at the home of Mrs. Lulu Simpson who is Mrs. Porter's cousin.

Love for the child which developed a desire to have her for her own, led to Mrs. Simpson taking the child to Columbus, and resulted in a kidnapping alarm sent out by local relatives. Mrs. Simpson said she was fond of the child and thought her mother would not care if she took the little girl to Columbus.

She left with the child without telling Mrs. Porter, or without asking her permission and the latter was frantic until she learned the child's whereabouts. Hazel was well taken care of, however, and is none the worse.

HARDING HAILS LINCOLN AS APOSTLE OF HUMANITY.

"Maintained union and nationality," rather than "emancipation," was declared to be the supreme chapter in American history by President Harding in an address last Tuesday accepting the Lincoln Memorial in behalf of the American people. Lincoln would have compromised with slavery, Mr. Harding declared, while cleaving to his great purpose—the maintenance of the "inheritance handed down by the founding fathers."

Declaring that the new memorial was fittingly placed near the towering spire of the Washington Monument, Mr. Harding said that Washington, the founder, and Lincoln the savior, "offered outstanding proof that a representative popular government, constitutionally founded, can find its own way to salvation and accomplishment."

The President said in his address:

"It is a supreme satisfaction officially to accept on behalf of the Government this superb monument to the savior of the Republic. No official duty could be more welcome, no official function more pleasing. This memorial edifice is a noble tribute, gratefully bestowed, and in its offering is the reverent heart of America; in its dedication is the consciousness of reverence and gratitude beautifully expressed."

"Somehow my emotions incline me to speak simply as a reverent and grateful American rather than one in official responsibility. I am thus inclined because the true measure of Lincoln is in his place today in the heart of American citizenship, though more than half a century has passed since his colossal service and his martyrdom."

"In every moment of peril, in every hour of discouragement, whenever the clouds gather, there is the image of Lincoln to rivet our hopes and to renew our faith. Whenever there is a glow of triumph over national achievement there comes the reminder that but for Lincoln's heroic and unalterable faith in the Union, these triumphs could not have been."

"No greater character in all history has been more eulogized, no rugged figure made more monumental, no likeness more portrayed. Printers and sculptors portray as they see, and no two see precisely alike. So, too is there varied emphasis in the portraiture of words, but all are agreed about the rugged greatness and the surpassing tenderness and unfailing wisdom of this master martyr."

WHEN HARRIET LANE ENTERTAINED THE PRINCE OF WALES AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

The name of Harriet Lane is always associated with that of her uncle, James Buchanan.

In the summer of 1860 the Prince of Wales was making a tour through Canada. President Buchanan extended an invitation, through Queen Victoria, for the Prince to visit the United States ere his return to England. The invitation was accepted. It was at this time that Miss Lane did honor to her country by the manner in which the Prince and his party were entertained. It was the first time that an heir apparent to the crown of Great Britain had touched foot upon the soil of the lost colonies. Miss Lane took the contracted accommodations of the White House and metamorphosed them into suites, wherein the Prince and his party were made very comfortable for their five days' stay. It is needless to conjecture what the subterfuges were in the family household to make room for this royal party, but Miss Lane was equal to the occasion and so admirably did she order the Executive entertainment that it was with regret that they turned their backs upon the Capital, the Executive Mansion and the charming Miss Harriet Lane.

Fifty years have gone by since that summer time. This nation has grown apace in power, wealth, and in physical proportions, but the home of the President has not increased a cubic foot, and today His Excellency would be obliged to vacate again his own apartments if a royal scion should grace the portals of the Executive Mansion.

The Prince enjoyed his stay with all the freshness of youth unfettered by the grave affairs of state.

When this great-grandson of George III stood uncovered before the tomb of Washington, he did homage and honor to the man who rent the empire. When he planted the tree that will shade the sarcophagus that holds the ashes of Washington the Great, he bound the wounds that were made when the last of the kings in whose veins flowed blood of William the Conqueror bowed the knee to the great General of the colonies.

When the Prince arrived in England the Queen acknowledged her gratitude at the reception of her son through an autograph letter to President Buchanan.

THE MEXICAN WAY.

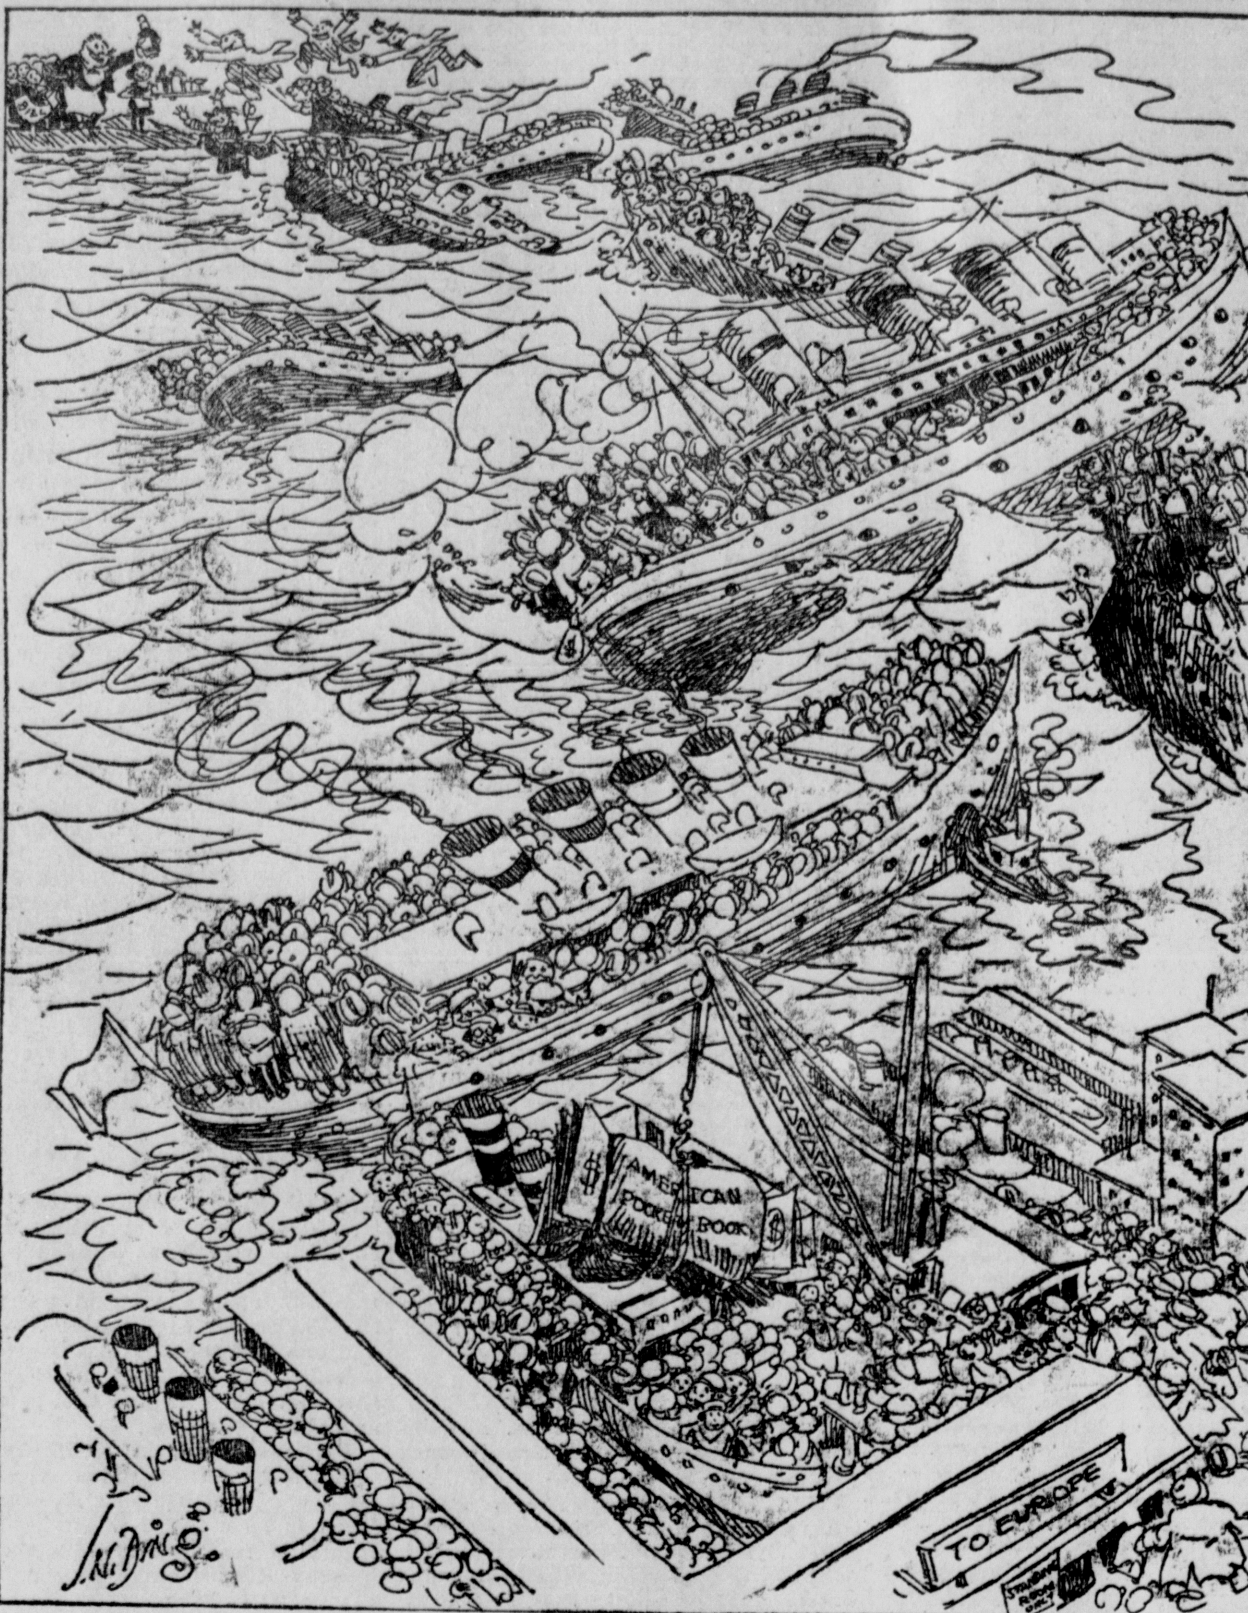

At about the time when the Mexican Charge d'Affaires in this country was denying vigorously that there could be such a thing as a rebellion by Felix Diaz two rebel leaders were being executed, one of them being Diaz's personal representative. Rebellion is a habit with Diaz, and he never has been successful unless when serving under somebody else. The only matter of public interest in his present foredoomed attempt is the question, Who is financing him this time?

Obregon is taking the right way with these popping rebellions. There was a time when Americans would not have thought so, when they would have been shocked at the shooting of rebels, but they have come to understand better the difference between Mexico and the United States after twelve years of anarchy, graft and brigandage. No question of principle is involved; no question at all except which rascal should get the national pocket-book.

The present President, if not an ideal, seems sincerely to desire the bringing about of peace and the building up of a nation; in short, he is a sort of Porfirio Diaz of a coarser type. If he fails, Mexico will take another plunge into anarchy of indefinite length. Since that is the aim and object of these rebel "generals," who are mere bandits, the equivalent of pirates, Obregon's practice of shooting them as soon as they take the highway is to be commended highly. It was the way in which Porfirio Diaz built up the nation, and Obregon is the only man in sight who can do it and seems anxious to do it.

It is for this that the Harding Administration is waiting. As soon as Obregon demonstrates that his nation is a real one and is at peace he will get the official recognition he craves. Apparently, some people will have to be shot first.

EUROPEAN RELIEF.

WHO SAID AMERICA WAS NOT INTERESTED IN EUROPEAN AFFAIRS?

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

The Xenia Shoe factory which has been closed down for the past ten days, started up yesterday for the run on the fall stock.

A meeting of the Xenia Driving Club was held last night at which final arrangements were made for the first of the season's matinee races, next Friday. There will be a parade, headed by the S. of V. Band. There are prospects for some good races on the opening day.

A number of officers of the Pan Handle were in this city yesterday holding an investigation to fix the responsibility for the wreck a few days ago, when a Pan Handle engine went on a rampage and crashed into two trains.

How friendly the trees are! What a drear world it would be without them. How they bring beauty and health and happiness into the world.

I have passed through practically treeless towns and have felt sorry for those who were compelled, perhaps to live there. And I have suddenly come into towns where the trees fairly welcomed you and made you want to stay forever. How I love the great trees of California and the Northwest!

Saratoga Springs in New York State stands happily in my memory for its wonderful trees. I believe its trees contribute quite as much to bringing back the health of those who go there as does the water from its famous springs.

I can understand the secret of Thoreau's wonderful sweetness of soul—he lived among and loved the trees.

THE FALLEN TREE

There it lay, silent, lifeless. Two hundred feet or so. Big in bulk, solid heavy—monarch in days gone by, this fallen tree.

I stood before it and wondered, though, and wondered. Why had it fallen? What numberless birds had nested near its heart and sung out their throats from its leaved and spreading branches. Perhaps many a human had stood beneath its extended arms and cooled in its shade.

I walked to where the roots of this great king of the woods once held their life in the ground. They were bent, and broken.

Why did this beautiful specimen fall, when so many other trees less in grandeur still stood?

I wondered if the mystery of life did not also apply to trees—the stronger often falling in advance of the weak.

And why not—with the same God watching over trees and human bodies alike?

Perhaps a blight had come to the tree, and, after standing for a long time against the wind and storm, its roots had given away before the strain of years—and the towering dead finally fell.

I can almost hear that fall—full

THE PROMISE.

I said to J. H. Thomas, who runs the Blue Front store, "My bill, I'll pay, I promise, next Saturday, at four." "I hope you will not fail me," the merchant prince replied; "my creditors assail me, and will not be denied. I've sold you cheese and honey, and marked it on the slate, and now I need the money, so pay me on that date." On Saturday 'twas raining, the streets were full of mud, and bitter winds, complaining, chilled every mortal's blood. And I had pains rheumatic that sizzled in my back, so I was not ecstatic o'er going from my shack. My aunts assembled round me and said I was a sap; the bitter storm would pound me and wash me from the map. "The grocer won't expect you to come on such a day, and when the storm has wrecked you, remember what we say," I said, "This J. H. Thomas expects his ninety cents; I gave my sacred promise, so cease your wild laments." Then through the mud a-hiking, I slithered up the road, and as the clocks were striking I paid up what I owed. And Thomas told the story to merchants here and there, and now I live in glory, my stand-off passing fair.

Notice to Public

AND PROHIBITION OFFICERS—My place having been searched on May 20, 1922, for booze and a still, and nothing having been found, I recognize the possibility of a frame-up by some one else placing a still and planting booze on my premises, and fully realizing the liability that such action would place upon me, therefore, to keep from trespassing on my premises and any having business with me, to come to my house by way of my private drive, from the south, off Fairground Road, and leaving my residence by same route, either during the day or night.

I WARN ALL PERSONS

SEEK POSITIONS FOR SCHOOL STUDENTS

Harper C. Pendry, principal of Central High School is appealing to business men and employers to consider high school boys and girls for employment this summer.

According to Mr. Pendry, Miss Margaret O'Neill, head of the commercial branches department has succeeded in placing a number of graduates and undergraduates of that department with employers in this city.

Several students in commercial work, who have been especially successful in their school work on these lines, have not been taken care of, however, and the school authorities are anxious to aid them to put their education to practical use by obtaining employment for them.

Employers who can take students in this capacity or either boys or girls for other branches of work are asked to communicate with Principal Pendry, either now, or at any time during the summer when such employment presents itself.

GOOD HELP IN SUMMER

Indigestion causes worry, nervousness, sick headaches, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, bloating, gas, constipation and constant distress. Henry C. Thorne, 1002 Harrison Ave., Boston, Mass., writes: "Since taking Foley Cathartic Tablets I feel fine." They cleanse the bowels, sweeten the stomach and invigorate the liver. Cause no pain, no nausea. TOM AND GERTIE CONFIDE IN THE FAMILY Chapter 61

I had come to her—Gertie Cummings—that most wonderful thing on earth, the love of the man to whom she had given her heart, without hope that he would ever be more than her friend.

Tom went up the narrow stairs with her, his arm about her waist. At the door of the flat, he once again raised her face and kissed her, then their faces glowing, happy in the first acknowledgement of their love they entered upon the homely scene.

Supper was on the table, a late supper, delayed purposely in the hope that Tom and Gertie would return in time to share it. It had been a happy Sunday for those who remained at home as well as for Gertie. Tim was now walking without a crutch, using only a stick to help himself about the room; Jennie had passed all her examinations, and had been wonderfully pleased by flattering remarks; Mrs. Cummings, loving mother that she was, rejoiced in her children's happiness, and was happy herself because they were.

Mrs. Arnold had been in and had shown a little neighborly jealousy, which did not detract from Mrs. Cummings' good feeling.

"We've got hot biscuits, Gertie!" Tim called as the two lovers appeared. "Hurry up, you and Tom or they'll get cold!"

"Yes, Tim," Gertie answered a new note in her voice that caused Mrs. Cummings to glance keenly and quickly at her; then at Tom Norris, who answered the look:

"Gertie has promised to marry me, Mrs. Cummings. Will you trust her to me?"

"Gee! You bet, she will!" Tim broke out and in spite of his injury hopped about on his stick, too excited to keep still.

"Who asked your permission?" Tom said laughing. "Will you, Mrs. Cummings? I will try to make her happy."

The ever ready tears came to the good woman's eyes, and as usual they were wiped away on her apron before she could reply:

"God bless you both! It's me that's a happy mother. Yes, Tom, I trust you, and know Gertie—loves you. Be that good to her, Tom. She's always been a good girl. Whatever I shall do without her I don't know! Again she needed to wipe away the tears.

"There, Ma, don't cry. I'm not married yet," Gertie blushed as she kissed her and then hid her face in her mother's neck.

"Come on, the biscuits are getting cold!" Tim called, already seated at the table munching one. They all sat down, but save for Tim, none of them had much appetite. They had too much to talk about, Jennie asked:

"When are you going to get married, Gertie?"

"Not until you are through school," was the quiet answer. Tom looked up, surprised. Said he:

"You'll have to hurry, Jennie. I don't intend to wait very long to give the old ranch a mistress."

"We'll talk about that, Tom," Gertie said, a new dignity descending upon her. "All right, dear, but I can't wait very long," he repeated.

After the supper was cleared away and at a signal from Mrs. Cummings Tom and Gertie were left alone. It was late and he would stay but a few moments.

"You must let me help you now that you belong to me, Gertie," he said as they sat closely together hands locked.

"What do you mean, Tom?"

"I have enough—," he was embarrassed, "and you must let me help out so you can stop dancing. I hate to think of your going to that place night after night, when I am not here to bring you home."

"No, Tom. Neither mother or I could take your money—no, before, I couldn't! Tom."

She spoke so earnestly that Tom asked:

"Why, dear? It will all be yours soon, yours and mine together."

"I just couldn't, Tom! Ma brought us up never to take money from anyone—until we were married. She always told us real nice girls, the kind you know I mean, never do. Don't ask me to, Tom, and please don't ask Ma. She'd think you—was ashamed—or—"

"All right, Gertie. I'll say no more now. But—" he stopped, then added: "She won't object to my giving you a ring, will she?"

They both laughed. Gertie's face crimson with blushes. "I'll come for you tomorrow and we'll go and get it," he said taking her into his arms to bid her goodnight.
